List of AT&T U-verse channels

This is the national television channel lineup for IPTV and VDSL internet service provider AT&T U-verse, as of October 22, 2011.^[1] Some channels have both east and west feeds, airing the same programming with a three-hour delay on the latter feed, creating a backup for subscribers who may have missed a particular program; the three-hour delay also represents the time zone difference between Eastern (UTC -5/-4) and Pacific (UTC -8/-7).

All channels are the East Coast feed, if not specified; both the east and west coast feeds of certain channels are available to all subscribers where noted, otherwise only the coastal feed serving their region of the United States (east coast feed for the Central and Eastern time zones and the west coast feed for the Pacific and Mountain time zones) are available.

- ² Subscribers can receive most regional sports channels exclusively with the U450 package; otherwise, regional sports channels serving the subscriber's particular region of the U.S. are only available to customers who subscribe to all other packages (except U-family). Some regional sports networks are only delivered to areas where that network's teams are in-market. HD feeds of regional sports networks are only available in the RSN's market, except for YES and SportsTime Ohio whose HD feeds are distributed nationally. As of December 15th, 2010, U-Verse changed offering of RSN's to where the SD feeds are in-market only in U100 except for YES, SNY, and SportsTime Ohio which are available nationally in U450. The HD feeds of the regional sports networks are available nationally in HD extra except for those which are only distributed in-market. Chicago Cubs Multiview (WGN home games only) is open to all subs with U-100 blackouts may apply.

- The C-SPAN 2 channel is sometimes used for overflow game programming.

- Fox and MyNetworkTV were dropped from Cablevision on October 16 due to a contract dispute. On October 27, 2010 Fox rejected the new offer that Cablevision offered for them. As of October 30, 2010 Fox and MyNetworkTV are now back on the air.^[6] (Fox station in Hartford and My Network affiliates in Hartford and Philadelphia were not effected during the dispute and stayed on the systems that carried them.)

Criticisms

- Many have criticized the advertising of a "digital cable service" where many of the most popular channels are broadcast in an analog format.
- High compression on digital (including HD) channels has been criticized as excessive, causing the picture to appear pixelized due to low bandwidth. While other cable providers usually multiplex 2 HD streams per 6Mhz QAM carrier, Cablevision multiplexes 3, 4 or 5 HD streams for some of its channels.
- There is a high rate of instability of the Scientific Atlanta cable boxes.
- Cablevision has also been criticized in the past for not having as many channels as other providers, such as Verizon FiOS, DirecTV, Dish Network, and Time Warner Cable, who carry the NFL Network, BBC America, and ESPN 3. BBC America was finally added on August 25, 2011.^[7]

Qwest Choice TV

CenturyLink Choice Television was a digital cable provider in Phoenix and Denver and Omaha. The service is delivered over VDSL in the form of IPTV. Qwest is planning to discontinue its Choice services and invest into ADSL2+ and VDSL2 for its high speed Internet infrastructure. [\[1\]](#) New Qwest customers can choose DirecTV for bundled services as Qwest Choice is being phased out. For services in Omaha, see Qwest Choice TV Omaha.
